What Are Enriched Hop Pellets?

Enriched hop pellets are also known as “concentrated hop pellets” or “lupulin-enriched hop pellets.” They are sold under various brand names.

Enriched pellets contain a higher concentration of the aromatic oils and bittering resins from whole hop cones, while the proportion of polyphenols and other vegetative matters is reduced.

How to Brew with Enriched Pellets

Enriched Hop Pellets can be used anywhere conventional pellets would be incorporated, but are ideal for aroma and whirlpool additions, as well as dry hopping during or after fermentation.

Due to the higher concentration of acids and oils in enriched pellets, hop charges in many recipes can be reduced by approximately 50% vs. conventional pellets or whole hop cones. We recommend conducting trials to determine the optimal enriched usage rate for your formulation.
